

KNOCKED OUT TEETH

DISCLAIMER:

The information contained in this document has been compiled from sources believed to be reliable at the time and is presented here as a study aid and for general information use only. This information is not intended to replace or supercede the information or procedures outlined in your first aid textbook, other officially issued study materials or government published acts or legislative documents.

Whilst every effort has been made to ensure that the information is accurate at the time of publication, the authors are not responsible for any loss, liability, damage or injury that may be suffered or incurred by any person in connection with the information contained on this site, or by anyone who receives first aid treatment from a reader or user of this information.

First aid for knocked-out teeth

- Begin ESM and primary survey
- Apply direct pressure to stop the bleeding where the gap from the tooth is. The casualty should bite down on a thick pad.
- The casualty should keep their head forward so the blood can drain out of the mouth.
- The tooth should be placed in a cup of milk or saline solution or in a plastic wrap moist with casualty's saliva.
- Keep giving care and get medical help.